Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0677892A1] The contact carrying module includes a seating (11) for each of the contacts and a locking element (75) for retaining each of the contacts. A folding flap (77) is attached to the module by a hinge (76). This flap includes projecting edges which are intended to retain the contacts within the carrier when in one of its two fold positions. When assembled, the contact carrier is inserted within a slim rectangular box. The folding flap is held down by the internal surface of the box, and ensures retention of the contacts within their seatings. <IMAGE>
