Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0687813A1] The method involves pressing the control rod (7) of the injection pump element (1,1') against a spring-loaded control rod stop. In this position the linkage lever (4) is turned against a stop (13) and has an adjustment pin (5) held in the recess (6) of the control rod. The linkage lever is turned against the stop (13) to adjust the basic delivery quantity. The adjustment pin is pressed against the installation movement direction (8) of the control rod. <IMAGE>
