Abstract (en)

A movable footrest (1) for a chair comprising a frame (2), which footrest (1) can be moved between an inoperative position and a substantially horizontal operative position, comprises moving means, which move the free end (3') of the footrest (1) in a path in a substantially horizontal plane when the footrest (1) is being moved. The movement which the footrest makes when being moved requires little space, as a result of which the accessibility of the chair, in particular of a chair unit for a chair lift, and the ease of operation of the footrest are improved. <MATH>
