Abstract (en)

The mailer form has an envelope portion (62) integrated with a letterhead or insert portion to permit feeding through an imaging device such as a laser printer whereby both the letterhead portion and the envelope portion (62) can be imaged at the same time. The letterhead portion (61) can be imaged with information containing a name and address at the same time as the envelope portion (62) is addressed. The adhesive (73) on the flap (67) of the envelope is protected from the heat of a laser printer by being sandwiched between the flap (67) and the letterhead portion (61). <MATH>
