Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0695689A1] The system is for a roll of wound strip material using an end cover folded against the roll periphery. On or after fitting the cover (11) onto the end face of the roll (2), cuts are formed in its edge. The inner ends of the cuts can be on a pitch circle whose diameter is equal to or greater than that of the roll, and the cuts can be formed from the inside to the outside. The cover can be held taut at the start of the cutting operation, and a cutting tool (15) moving in the axial direction of the roll can be used.
