Abstract (en)
The headrest (1) includes a locking mechanism (3) with two strips or plates (5,6) connected to each other at both ends and defining two transverse recesses (7,8) which receive respective articulating means connected to the headrest (1) and to a mounting post (12) slidably inserted into a suitable socket (13) made in the backrest (2) of the dentist chair. The locking mechanism (3) is equipped with a pneumatic control device (14) that clamps the plates (5,6) so that the articulating means are locked within the respective recesses (7,8). <IMAGE>
