Abstract (en)

In order to allow for a liquid active solution to be applied to the scalp of an individual, the present method provides for a same amount of liquid active solution to be closed-loop sprayed by means of a plurality of spray nozzles (12,13) arranged along the scalp, with said amount of liquid solution being always kept at a desired optimal temperature for the absorption of said active solution through the pores of the treated individual. The active solution may possibly be a shampoo. In this case, the method may provide for a subsequent rinsing step. <IMAGE>
