Abstract (en)

[origin: WO9501111A1] In order to prevent theft, a container for valuables, such as a note case or handbag, is connected to the person or a valuable article is connected to a fixed location, by a flexible, elongate connecting member (3) which is retractable into a housing (1) so that the container can be held close to the person but can be distanced from the person as the connecting member is drawn out of the housing. There is an alarm device (7, 8, 9) for actuating an alarm when a substantial length of the connecting member (3) has been drawn out of the housing (1).
