Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0707814A2] The adjustable office partition has a stable frame carrying an outer cladding and supporting one or more height-adjustable support surfaces (26) for an image screen (27). The support surface is fitted to the frame via a support console (25), attached to a vertical plate (22) at a required height, with the vertical plate in turn attached to the frame via horizontal mounting rails (20), which allow the vertical plate and the support console to be adjusted horizontally. Pref. the frame is assembled from metal profiles, e.g. of Al, and projects above desk height, the frame supported at the base by a number of feet (14), extending from the frame in the same direction as the support console.
