Abstract (en)

[origin: US5528015A] An electric range top has a cooking surface with at least one hotspot and a display-and-control panel for the cooking surface. The panel accommodates display devices and manually operated control devices for regulating each hotspot. The cooking surface has a cutout in one corner wherein the panel is mounted. One area of the cooking surface is elevated and at least partly overlaps the cutout and the display and control devices are positioned in the vicinity of the elevated area.
