Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0715039A1] The framework has a support (3) for erecting a shuttering wall (2), and which is connected to it. The framework is left behind in a finished reinforced concrete component. The support acts as a separator for the reinforcement (10), and is formed from spaced bars (4,5). The wall may be fixed to the support so that it projects above its upper edge (6). The wall may also project beyond the plane (7) on which the support stands. At least one bar (5) of the structure of the support, may be in the region of its upper edge.
