Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0727918A1] The oven has a control panel on which it is possible to choose (8) the family of foods required from a selection. A further control (9) is provided for entry of a reference time, and a control (11) is used to start the cooking phase. The selector, time control and starter switch (8,9 and 11) are connected to an information processor (20) which includes, amongst other components, a cancel switch (22). A switch (18) is able to change between the cancelling action of the switch (22) and the selection information which has been entered. The selector switches may be rotary switches.
