Abstract (en)
[origin: WO9607456A1] The invention concerns a rotating flying object (1), for example a throwing disc or quoit. Slidingly secured in an eccentric area of said object is a component (3) such as, for example, a streamer, which remains stable in the direction of flight. The component (3) which remains stable in the direction of flight can also be a member having an imaginative design of any type and enclose the rotating flying object (1) completely or partially at one or more points.
