Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0733326A1] The bridges (4) are joined by holders (6) at the ends to the frames (2). Each holder has an anchoring member (8) secured to the frame and a mounting (10) joining the member to the bridge. In the unloaded state of the bridge, the plate-type mounting is parallel to the frame, and it bends outwards on a horizontal axis under load. This accommodates the shortening of the bridge in the horizontal direction on bending under load. The member can consist of a plate bearing against the frame inside surface and forming a frame, inside which the mounting is contained. The bottom edge of the frame can be formed on the member.
