Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0738860A2] The counter (1) has a large surface area on its cover (2) into which washbasins (3) are recessed under taps (4). The refrigerator (12) is a replaceable enclosed unit fitted to a thermally insulating partition (10) which separates the interior space (7) under the washbasins from other compartments (5,6). The evaporator absorbs heat from the air extracted from these compartments by a fan and recirculated (18) via an air duct (16) of elongated rectangular section. The air flow is homogenised by parallel strips of sheet metal across the width of the duct.
