Abstract (en)
The vehicle is parked on a pallet supported on a load platform (5) which is mounted on telescopic hoists on a trolley. The trolley is moved along the parking rack by wheels on rails and the platform is hoisted to the required height on the servo driven telescopic supports (7, 8). The telescopic supports are fitted each side of the front of the trolley and the platform is further supported by two racks. The platform is supported on the telescopic drives by a support frame. The horizontal movement of the pallet is provided by two telescopic drives mounted on the platform. One servo motor drives the trolley and operates the hoist while a second servo motor drives the horizontal slider. For hydraulic drives each is provided with an electrically driven pump.
