Abstract (en)

The rotary press for producing tiles comprises: a turntable (3) that carries a plurality of moulds (5); around the said turntable (3), a first (7) and a second (9) mould-loading station. The second loading station (9) comprises a loading container (27) that receives the loose material from a hopper (15) and discharges it into an intermediate container (13) located above the mould (5); and shut-off means (55) that close and open the bottom of the intermediate container (13). A movable unit in the second station comprises the loading container (27) and the shut-off means (55), the latter moving integrally with the loading container. <IMAGE>
