Abstract (en)

Improved lance, particularly for the steam delivery, and apparatus for the cleaning of surfaces so obtained, of the type consisting of a movable body containing a boiler, as well as a lance, connectable to the first by means of an extension flexible hose provided with a quick connection device and including a pistol on which are provided control means for allowing the delivery of steam jets, characterized in that control means transform a pressure signal into an electric signal that continues when the pressure directly exerted on a membrane persists and stops with the release, alternatively, said pressure, obtaining an electric signal which remains stable up to the following disconnection pressure impulse. <IMAGE>
