Abstract (en)
[origin: US5755338A] A bulletin board structure includes a ferromagnetic board which is coated so that it can be written on, and a container removably mounted on a lower end of the board. The container includes a plurality of upwardly open compartments. At least one of the compartments has slots formed in opposing walls thereof for receiving the axle stubs of a tape roll. The container can also include holes for receiving hooks.\!
