Abstract (en)

[origin: US5911557A] PCT No. PCT/EP96/00512 Sec. 371 Date Feb. 7, 1997 Sec. 102(e) Date Feb. 7, 1997 PCT Filed Feb. 7, 1996 PCT Pub. No. WO96/25355 PCT Pub. Date Aug. 22, 1996The invention relates to a process and device for taking up stacked or flat objects and subsequently transferring them from a collecting point forming a first station to a second station at which the objects are further processed or handled. The gripping device used is assisted by additional supports in the region not covered by the grip. This assistance occurs when the object is taken up from the first station and stops during the transfer to the second station. The additional supports may be mechanically, pneumatically or hydraulically controlled.
