Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0756838A1] At least one tensioning element (3) is positioned on the end of the table top (1) opposite the cantilevered part of the table. The tensioning element is joined to the floor and or ceiling and or wall. The tensioning elements are in the form of cables and or tension bars or compression bars. The tensioning cable runs over a deflector roller between ceiling and floor. The table leg is positioned in a guide on the floor. The tension elements are connected to the floor and or ceiling by tie pieces or hooked pile fastenings. Counterweights joined to the tension elements are for anchoring to the ground.
