Abstract (en)

[origin: DE4416606C1] A screened plug (10) has a contact base (11) to the inside of which may be connected the individual wires of a screened cable (23) and the outside of which forms at least one plug connection section (13, 14), and a screen housing (30) surrounding the inside of the contact base (11), the end of which towards the cable (23) has a cable crimp (37) for connection to the screen (24) of a cable (23). This simplifies the connection of the screen of the cable used to the plug screen contact. Here, the end of the screen housing (30) facing the contact base (11) has one or more projecting screen contact strips (43, 44) projecting into the region of the at least one plug connection section (13, 14) of the contact base (11).
