Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0765987A1] The safe has a fixed column-shaped housing (4) from which moves the storage container (11) out of the top end surface. The movement of the storage container is supported by compression springs (10). The storage container is raised along guide bars belonging to the housing and at the same time guiding the compression springs. The guide bars also act as screws for shutting the lid (3) on the top end surface of the column-shaped housing. The lid has an opening for the cylindrical storage container.
