Abstract (en)

The bath lift for disabled persons comprises a base frame (13), a guide frame (14) and, supported and guided by this, a lifting plate (16). There is also a hydraulic lifting hose (12), connected to the base frame and the lifting plate, which is connected to a manual control valve (18) fitted on one side of the lifting plate. The manual control valve passes through an opening (26) of the lifting plate, and exhibits a supply connection for a connection hose leading to a domestic water pipe, characterised in that the lifting plate exhibits, adjacent to each of its two longitudinal sides, an opening (26,28). Both openings are identically contoured, and of mirror arrangement, in relation to a longitudinal centre line of the lifting plate. At least one fixing hole (30) is provided, at two opposite sides of each opening, that a manual control valve may be optionally bolted into both openings. The lifting plate (16) exhibits further fixing holes (32,44), by means of a manifold (34,35) which is, or may be, fitted to the underside of the lifting plate.
