Abstract (en)

A device for opening two or more fastening members of a sports implement or of a sports shoe, such as for example a binding (2) for a snowboard, a ski boot, an ice skate, or a roller skate. The device is constituted by a flexible element (21) that mutually connects the two or more fastening members (8,9); when traction is applied to the flexible element by the user, the flexible element causes the simultaneous opening of the fastening members. <IMAGE>
