Abstract (en)
[origin: WO9420748A1] An injection pump (4) for a diesel engine has a pump piston (19) which is guided in the pump cylinder (22) and may be actuated by a cam drive. The cam drive is designed as a spring-loaded rocker (3) actuated by the camshaft (1). The end of the rocker (3) at the pump side cooperates with the associated end of the pump piston (19). Both ends are loosely interconnected by a driver (20).
