Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0775794A1] The cabinet has an upper part (1) mounted on a lower part and consisting of an upper surface, a forward lateral surface (5), a rear lateral surface, left and right side surfaces and a lower surface enclosing a vol. in which the objects can be placed. At least the forward lateral surfaces are a glass plate (25) pivotably attached to the upper surface by a suitable arrangement. Gas pressure springs (13) attached to the lower surface of the upper part in the region of the forward lateral surface act on the central region of the forward lateral surface on both sides. Each exerts a force corresp. to half the wt. of the forward lateral surface, which is movable by motor driven spindles (14) between open and closed positions.
