Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0782830A1] The second foam material area (22) is fixed without adhesive in a recess in the first foam material area (11). The second foam material area in plan view on the lying surface of the mattress (10) extends crossways to the longitudinal direction of the mattress. The material of one of the foam material areas in relation to the material of the other area has a different recovery rate of its material after loading, particularly a slow recovery rate. The second foam material area is releasably fixed in the first. The second foam material area and the accommodation extend from one long side (23, 24) of the mattress to the other.
