Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0782832A1] This invention concerns a plastic moulded vase for proper preservation of flowers after picking through to storage, delivery and sale. The vase consists of a bottom hollow casing which contains water and acts as a support and stabiliser as well as an upper truncated pyramid shaped lid (2) having circular cavities (8) on its walls with centre holes (8a) in which the flower corollas are housed after passing the stalks through the holes (8a) at the center of said cavity so as to soak in the water in the underlying tank casing. <IMAGE>
