Abstract (en)
[origin: WO9619625A1] A plaster facing is comprised of a layer of facing tiles (15) attached to a building wall (11) and a layer (18) of plaster applied over the facing tiles. The facing tiles (15) are supported on the building wall (11) spaced therefrom and with freedom of movement relative to the wall parallel to the plane of the wall. Preferably, the facing tiles (15) are supported by support bars (12) which are attached to the wall and serve as spacers between the wall (11) and the facing tiles and to which the facing tiles are hooked from above.
