Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0802123A1] The stopper has a closure (4) with a dispenser for the paste formed of an elastic material which is deformable in two directions. the closure has a passage for the product. A closure has a fixed neck (8) and a movable cap (10) defining the passage for the paste and the closure is sandwiched between these. Threads (14) are provided to allow the displacement of the cap towards the fixed neck. This causes a progressive compression of the closure so that the passage is progressively closed by an elastic deformation of the material perpendicular to the axis of the capsule.
