Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0803207A1] The sports boot comprises uppers (4,5) which cover vertical extensions from a base shell (1) in the ankle zone (23). The shell base has a longitudinal opening (17) on the top provided with a pair of transverse flaps (13,15). The flaps are each partially separated from the lateral vertical extensions (12) by slits (19) parallel to the longitudinal opening above the base. The slits determine, in the front part of the vertical extensions, the edges (24,26) of a U shaped indentation and a tongue (14,16) on each flap. The tongues are fitted to the flaps at a level corresponding to the bending fold (20) beyond the parts covered by the uppers.
