Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0805250A1] The device has a locking mechanism such as a casement bolt or lock which is attached to a the window leaf (3) and which acts on a locking mechanism (14) so that engages a first strike plate in the window frame (7). A second strike plate (23) is in a small rod (24) hinged on a support (26) attached to the window frame. The rod moves into an initial position (32) by elastic force. This holds the window open and the locking mechanism engages the second strike plate in the rod. In the second position the leaf is closed and the locking mechanism engages in the first strike plate in the window frame.
