Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0808588A2] The longitudinal frame members are fastened at their ends to two lateral frame members. These members are fastened at their ends to metal tubes which make up the legs of the table. The individual frame members (11) are made of extruded profiles of light alloy. They are of rectangular section. The long walls are of thin plain section, while the short walls are thickened with inward-facing projections (12) which define part-circular grooves (13). These are adapted to accommodate screws for fastening at ends of frame members.
