Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0810335A2] A modular structure comprising a plurality of structural elements (1) of channel section made from reinforced concrete, having a layer (10) of thermally insulating material extending between two side connector portions (5, 6) of the structural element itself. The structure includes connector devices (18) of thermally insulating material each interposed between a pair of adjacent structural elements and adapted to make cooperating contact with the connector portions (5, 6) and with the layers (10) of thermally insulating material of the structural elements (1) to form therewith a substantially continuous covering layer (25) of the modular structure. <IMAGE>
