Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0818850A1] The anti-rotation terminal spade has a circular section (1) with a central hole which can be screwed in position. The section extends to hold a wire end (3). The circular section has part of the circumference with a smaller diameter than the other part. A lower section has protruding wings (8) which come up against the shoulders (12,13) formed by the tag. This construction prevents tag rotation.
