Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0834269A2] The plate (1) consists of several part plates with different surface compositions. On the underside of each plate, body grooves are provided extending in the longitudinal direction and in these grooves connecting strips or stiffening pieces can be inserted and fastened by screws. In a recess along the front side of the assembled part plates, a profiled cover piece is provided which is joined to them by a flange. The part plates have grooves along their abutting sides in which are inserted the arms of another profiled cover piece that is cross-shaped.
