Abstract (en)
A shoe sole having no heel and with the cushion improved is disclosed, which gives an athletic effect same as a mountain climbing during a usual walking, and the waist is made straightened, thereby correcting the posture of a walker. The heelless shoe sole includes a midsole, and the midsole includes an elastic tube (17) and a filling member (18) with projecting flanges (19) formed thereon. The projecting flanges have a plurality of holes (23) respectively. Further it includes a gently curved reinforcing plate (16) extending from the toe portion to the heel portion. Or the heelless shoe sole includes a midsole, and the midsole includes a recess having a certain depth and formed on a toe portion of the midsole. The midsole further includes a lateral through hole formed in a middle portion of the midsole and expanding from an outer side of the midsole toward an inner side of the midsole so as to be fit to the arcuate shape of a human foot sole. The midsole still further includes a V shaped groove formed in an arcuate portion of a heelless portion, and a tread face having a plurality of circular slots at a rear thereof.
