Abstract (en)

[origin: FR2736809A1] An epilation apparatus using a hot-melt wax and comprising a hand-held housing containing a supply of wax and a heating means for heating the wax so that it may be dispensed in a substantially liquid state. The apparatus comprises an applicator roll (1) connected to the wax outlet and provided with surface grooves (4). Said grooves (4) extend substantially in the rolling direction of the roll (1) so that the applied wax strip (10) includes ribs substantially parallel to the direction (F) in which the strip is to be pulled off.
