Abstract (en)
[origin: WO9631666A1] A shower device for a toilet seat (5) comprises a shower head (1), a water supply conduit (2) leading thereto, and a carrier (3) on which the shower head (1) and at least a portion of the conduit (2) are arranged and which is movably arranged in relation to a support construction (4) to move the shower head (1) in a pivoting movement between an active position in which the shower head is located for giving a person sitting on the toilet seat a shower from beneath in his or her seat region, and an inactive position in which the shower head is brought aside. The carrier (3) and thereby the shower head (1) are pivotable around a generally vertical axis (6) to effect the pivoting of the shower head in a generally horizontal plane of pivoting.
