Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0842851A1] The packing process for a roll (10) of newsprint with a rolling-in web (20) involves rolling in a regular fold (28) in at least one edge (22) of the web for laying against an endface (14) of the body transversely to the outer limit (26) of the edge, deepening towards it. The web is then wound round the roll and the folded edge is laid against the roll endface. The edge is prepared for bending not later than the rolling in of the fold along the longitudinal bend line. Before it reaches the roll, it is bent up to a right angle.
