Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0846430A2] The lock (5) can be released by an authorisation device (6) and also has a reservation function which interacts with the authorisation device. The reservation function can be operated as an alternative to releasing the locking mechanism. The authorisation device can be a punch card, chip card, magnetic card, transponder. The lock can have for reservation a cylinder lock with associated key or number lock. The lock and/or authorisation device has a data memory for storing data individualising the authorisation device. At the end of a predetermined time the data memory cancels out received data.
