Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0846480A2] A skate including a frame (2) provided with a resting base for a shoe (5) for walking and from which two supporting wings for wheels (7) protrude in a downward region. Devices (21a, 26) for a temporary connection to the shoe are associated with the base and/or with the frame and are located at at least three regions for the transmission of the forces applied laterally by the foot, such as the regions adjacent to the big toe, the little toe and the heel of the foot. <IMAGE>
