Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0850850A1] The dispenser comprises a housing with at least one partition (5A), an inner chamber designed to hold a batch of gloves (1), and a cut-away section (6) through which part of the gloves protrude and through which they can be extracted one at a time by applying a given effort. The cut-away section is designed, for example, to contain one finger (1A) of each of the gloves, and has stops (8,9) on either side for a batch of gloves. The stops fit between the protruding and adjacent fingers and hold a batch of gloves in place while preventing them from being removed more than one at a time.
