Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0853898A1] The container has a base (10) affixed to the water-sports equipment such as a surfboard or diver's gas tank, and a body forming a waterproof enclosure detachably secured to the base. The top cover (14) of the body has tabs which are retained under projections of the base such that the bottom tray (12) and top cover of the body cannot be unsealed without disengaging the body from the base. The top surface (40) of the cover forms a ramp engageable by the foot of the surf rider and may have grip material attached to it. The container further includes a plate engageable with the base in lieu of the body for providing a riding surface when body is removed. The base has a concave lower surface for adapted for fixing to the diver's tank, and a strap for attachment to participant. At least part of the body is transparent to allow viewing of items in the enclosure.
