Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0860299A1] The note pad holder consists of a base (4) which is made separately from a surround (3), the two components capable of being fitted together or separated. Prior to the surround being fitted to the base it can be opened out and printed on both sides (6, 7) using currently-available equipment. The surround is fitted to the base, for example, by inserting its lower edge into a groove in the base, the groove having one vertical and one sloping side. The lower edge of the surround can be fixed in the groove by an internal wedging element or projections from the groove walls engaging with holes in the surround.
