Abstract (en)
The construction (1) is built-up from a number of sections (2,3) which form a hollow track with flat bottom (4) and a number of end sections with which the construction is given a closed semi-circular end. The hollow track consists of concave sections which have flat horizontal platforms (10b) along the top. The platforms are used by the skaters to launch from or to end up on. The skaters can also move along the construction and along the semi-circular end. The concave sections are supported by struts (6,7). A roof can be added to the construction.
