Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0874211A2] The engine (5.1) is situated to one side of the longitudinal centreline (LMA) of the vehicle hull. It leaves a usable free space (6) on the other side between the crew compartment and the rear end (4) of the vehicle. This space contains a hatch (7) for entry and exit. The engine may be arranged to drive an electric generator on the same side of the vehicle, to supply current for motors driving the tracks. Alternatively a mechanical gearbox may be used, together with a transverse shaft driving the tracks. This shaft may pass across the free space in an enclosed tunnel.
