Abstract (en)
The Application describes an easel comprising a tray with a lid, the tray having a support arm hinged thereto at one end with the other end being hingedly connected to the lid. This allows the lid to provide a fully adjustable working surface. The tray can include serrations for accepting the edge of the lid, or struts to support it. The Application also provides an easel with four legs, a first two hinged to the tray and a second two hinged to the first two and releasably connectable to the tray. <IMAGE>
