Abstract (en)

A cartridge for pneumatic stapling hammer, particularly for firing U-shaped fixing elements (2), characterized in that it comprises: a profiled element (8), which shaped like an inverted letter U and is fixed below the handle (3) of the stapling hammer (1) and to the rear of the head (6) for firing the fixing elements (2) so as to be open downward; a pusher (22) which can slide on the profiled element (8); a traction spring (23) which is accommodated inside the profiled element (8) and in which one end is rigidly coupled to the profiled element (8) and the other end is rigidly coupled to the pusher (22) through a longitudinal slot of the profiled element (8), the spring (23) being guided by a pulley (31) which is rotatably supported inside the profiled element (8) proximate to the head (6) so as to actuate the pusher (22) towards the head; and a cover (14), which can slide on the profiled element (8) between a position for covering the profiled element (8), in which the cover (14) forms, together with the profiled element (8), a guiding channel (15) for the fixing elements (2), which is connected to the firing channel in the head (6) through an opening of the latter, and a position in which the cover (15) uncovers the profiled element (8) to allow loading of the fixing elements (2). <IMAGE>
